Pro Aris et Focis.

King's Mountain Centennial Celebration.

PROGRAMME FOR CENTENNIAL DAY,
October 7, 1880.

NATIONAL SALUTE,
AT SUNRISE.

REVIEW OF ALL TROOPS,
at 10 O'CLOCK A.M.

PROCESSION TO GRAND STAND,
at 11.30 O'CLOCK A.M.

SINGING OF THE LYRIC,
Written for the occasion by Mrs. Clara Darsan McLean, of Yorkville, S. C. Music by Prof. E. W. Lineback, of Salem, N. C.

Here, upon this lonely height,
Born in storm and bred in strife,
Nursed by Nature's secret might,
Freedom won the boast of life.
Song of bird and call of kine,
Fluttering leaf on every tree,
Every murmure of the wind,
Impulse gave to Liberty!

Then she blew a bungle blast,
Summed all her power and soul;
"Friends! the despot's hour is past.
Let him now our vengeance feel!"
Rose they in heroic might,
Bundled fast to be free,
Drew the sword of Justice bright,
Struck for God and Liberty!

Come, ye sons of patriot sires,
Who the tyrant's power overthrew,
Here, where burned their beacon flame,
Light your torches all anew!
Till this Mountain's plowing crest,
Signalling from sea to sea,
Shall proclaim from East to West
Union, Peace, and Liberty!

READING OF THE ODE,

MUSIC.

ORATION,
By Hon. John W. Daniel, of Lynchburg, Va.

UNVEILING OF THE MONUMENT,
By four young ladies representing Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Tennessee, assisted by the respective Governors of those States.

DRESS PARADE OF TROOPS, . . . at 5 P. M.

Pyrotechnic Display, . . . at 8 P. M.